introduction

THE NEW YORK CITY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION SOCIAL STUDIES SCOPE & SEQUENCE K-8

Social Studies is the integrated study of history, geography, economics, government and civics. More importantly it is the study of humanity, of people and events that individually and collectively have affected the world. A strong and effective Social Studies program helps students make sense of the world in which they live, it allows them to make connections between major ideas and their own lives, and it helps them see themselves as members of the world community. It offers students the knowledge and skills necessary to become active and informed participants on a local, national and global level.

Social Studies must also help students understand, respect and appreciate the commonalities and differences that give the U.S. character and identity. The complexities of history can only be fully understood within an appreciation and analysis of diversity, multiple perspectives, interconnectedness, interdependence, context and enduring themes.

The New York City DOE Social Studies Scope and Sequence is a comprehensive framework for Social Studies teaching in grades K-8 that brings together national standards, the ten thematic strands and the New York State Core Curriculum (content, concepts, key ideas, understandings and performance indicators). Each grade is organized around suggested time frames for the teaching of core content (units of study) guided by essential questions. Within each unit of study are found the major content and concepts and their relation to specific standards, key ideas and performance indicators (referenced in green).

Included with each grade are the appropriate reading/writing and research skills from the Information Fluency Continuum, as developed by the New York City School Library System.

ADDENDUM: STATE MANDATED INSTRUCTION IN SOCIAL STUDIES

New York State Education Law: Article 17, Sections 801-802

801. Courses of instruction in patriotism and citizenship and in certain historic documents.

Summary: The Regents shall prescribe:

1. courses of instruction in patriotism, citizenship, and human rights issues (especially the study of the inhumanity of genocide, Slavery, the Holocaust, and the Irish Famine) to be maintained and followed in all the schools of New York State. All students over age eight shall receive this instruction.
2. courses of instruction in the history, meaning, significance and effects of the Constitution of the United States, the amendments, the Declaration of Independence, the New York State Constitution and its amendments, to be maintained and followed in all of the schools of the state. All students in eighth grade and higher shall receive this instruction.
3. a course of studies in the public schools, during a week designated by the Regents, to instill the purpose, meaning and importance of the Bill of Rights articles in the federal and state constitutions, in addition to the prescribed courses of study in the schools.

801-a. Instruction in civility, citizenship and character education.

Summary: The Regents shall ensure that the instruction in grades Kindergarten through twelve includes a component on civility, citizenship and character education.

802. Instruction relating to the flag; holidays.

Summary: The commissioner shall:

1. prepare a program providing a salute to the flag and daily pledge of allegiance to the flag, and instruction in respect for the flag, for the use of the public schools of the state of New York.
2. make provision for the observance of Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday, Memorial Day and Flag Day in the public schools.

the ten thematic strands

- I Culture – A people’s way of life, language, customs, arts, belief systems, traditions, and how they evolve over time.
- II Time, Continuity, and Change – The importance of understanding the past and key historical concepts, analytically and from various perspectives.
- III People, Places, and Environments – The complex relationship between human beings and the environments within which they live and work.
- IV Individual Development and Identity – The exploration of human behaviors as they relate to the development of personal identities and the various factors that impact identity formation.
- V Individuals, Groups, and Institutions – The impact of educational, religious, social, and political groups and institutions and the integral roles they play in people’s lives.
- VI Power, Authority, and Governance – The complex purposes and features of individuals and groups with respect to issues of power and government.
- VII Production, Distribution, and Consumption – The role of resources, their production and use, technology, and trade on economic systems.
- VIII Science, Technology, and Society – The significance of scientific discovery and technological change on people, the environment, and other systems.
- IX Global Connections – The critical importance of knowledge and awareness of politics, economics, geography, and culture on a global scale.
- X Civic Ideals and Practices – The understanding that civic ideals and participatory citizenship are central to democracy.

thinking skills

It should be the goal of the instructor to foster the development of Social Studies thinking and process skills. The application of these skills allows students to understand and investigate important issues in the world around them. Inquiry-based units of study will include many or most of the following skills. These skills should be incorporated into students' instruction as developmentally appropriate.

Thinking Skills

- comparing and contrasting
- identifying cause and effect
- drawing inferences and making conclusions
- evaluating
- distinguishing fact vs. opinion
- finding and solving multi-step problems
- decision making
- handling diversity of interpretations

Sequencing and Chronology Skills

- using the vocabulary of time and place
- placing events in chronological order
- sequencing events on a timeline
- creating timelines
- researching time and chronology
- understanding concepts of time, continuity, and change
- using sequence and order to plan tasks
- setting priorities

Research and Writing Skills

- getting information
- organizing information
- looking for patterns
- interpreting information
- applying information
- synthesizing information
- supporting a position

Map and Globe Skills

- reading maps, legends, symbols, and scales
- using a compass rose, grids, time zones
- comparing maps and making inferences
- interpreting and analyzing different kinds of maps
- using cartographic tools
- creating maps

Interpersonal and Group Relation Skills

- defining terms
- identifying basic assumptions
- identifying values conflicts
- recognizing and avoiding stereotypes
- participating in group planning and discussion
- cooperating to accomplish goals

the middle school exit project

It is important for middle school students to have an opportunity to investigate a social studies topic in depth. The Middle School Exit Project will allow students to experience immersion in a social studies topic of their choosing as well as question, investigate, and present a well-researched project.

Exit Projects should attempt to interpret and analyze a historical event/era/person/idea rather than restate the subject matter. Students should be able to formulate a question around an area of interest and then conduct extensive research. A quality exit project begins with a good question, includes research from multiple sources, has a written component, utilizes graphics and visuals, demonstrates critical analysis and interpretation, and is presented orally.

The Exit Project may be completed in cooperative groups, pairs, or individually.

Depending on the topic researched, the Exit Project will require that students engage in the activities and skills below (as well as others):

- Using Essential Questions to identify a topic of interest for research
- Identifying an area of interest
- Developing a research question
- Preparing a plan for research
- Creating a project timeline and carrying out the plan
- Identifying, locating and using a variety of quality resources and materials
- Reading critically
- Note-taking
- Organizing notes and information
- Engaging in writing process to Draft, Revise and Edit
- Creating a bibliography
- Planning for use of graphics and visuals
- Developing an appropriate format (aligned to written component)
- Developing an oral component
- Creating speaking notes/script
- Aligning presentation to written and graphic components
- Understanding and using presentation skills (voice, eye contact, etc.)
- Rehearsing

Exit Project presentations may be made to classmates, other classes, parents, and/or school/community officials.

Information Fluency Continuum

- Ask authentic questions
- Revise questions to arrive at a manageable topic
- Define the purpose of the inquiry and align questions with the purpose
- Plan inquiry to test thesis
- Use a variety of search engines to do advanced searching
- Seek balanced view by using diverse sources
- Evaluate and select information based on authority, accuracy, and point of view
- Recognize the effect of different perspectives on information

- Gather evidence to determine the best-supported point of view
- Draw conclusions based on explicit and implied information
- Compare information found to tentative thesis; revise thesis as appropriate
- Use writing process to express new understandings
- Create products for authentic reasons
- Use 2 or 3 strategies for revising own work
- Cite all sources used using correct bibliographic format
- Use information to create original and creative products

- Read to predict outcomes, to answer questions, and to skim for facts
- Understand literal and implied meanings
- Participate in discussions and listen well
- Encourage team members to share ideas and opinions
- Design, publish, and present products that effectively communicate information
- Demonstrate understanding of intellectual freedom and intellectual property rights
- Identify themes that connect past and current events

STANDARD I – HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES AND NEW YORK

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of major ideas, eras, themes, developments, and turning points in the history of the United States and New York.

Key Idea 1.1:

1. The study of New York State and United States history requires an analysis of the development of American culture, its diversity and multicultural context, and the ways people are unified by many values, practices, and traditions.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 1.1a: know the roots of American culture, its development from many different traditions, and the ways many people from a variety of groups and backgrounds played a role in creating it
- 1.1b: understand the basic ideals of American democracy as explained in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution and other important documents
- 1.1c: explain those values, practices, and traditions that unite all Americans

Key Idea 1.2:

2. Important ideas, social and cultural values, beliefs, and traditions from New York State and United States history illustrate the connections and interactions of people and events across time and from a variety of perspectives.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 1.2a: gather and organize information about the traditions transmitted by various groups living in their neighborhood and community
- 1.2b: recognize how traditions and practices were passed from one generation to the next
- 1.2c: distinguish between near and distant past and interpret simple timelines

Key Idea 1.3:

3. The study about the major social, political, economic, cultural, and religious developments in New York State and United States history involves learning about the important roles and contributions of individuals and groups.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 1.3a: gather and organize information about the important accomplishments of individuals and groups, including Native American Indians, living in their neighborhoods and communities
- 1.3b: classify information by type of activity: social, political, economic, technological, scientific, cultural, or religious
- 1.3c: identify individuals who have helped to strengthen democracy in the United States and throughout the world

Key Idea 1.4:

4. The skills of historical analysis include the ability to: explain the significance of historical evidence, weigh the importance, reliability, and validity of evidence, understand the concept of multiple causation, and understand the importance of changing and competing interpretations of different historical developments.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 1.4a: consider different interpretations of key events and/or issues in history and understand the differences in these accounts
- 1.4b: explore different experiences, beliefs, motives, and traditions of people living in their neighborhoods, communities, and state
- 1.4c: view historic events through the eyes of those who were there, as shown in their art, writings, music, and artifacts

STANDARD 2 – WORLD HISTORY

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of major ideas, eras, themes, developments, and turning points in world history and examine the broad sweep of history from a variety of perspectives.

Key Idea 2.1:

1. The study of world history requires an understanding of world cultures and civilizations, including an analysis of important ideas, social and cultural values, beliefs, and traditions. This study also examines the human condition and the connections and interactions of people across time and space and the ways different people view the same event or issue from a variety of perspectives.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 2.1a: read historical narratives, myths, legends, biographies, and autobiographies to learn about how historical figures lived, their motivations, hopes, fears, strengths, and weaknesses
- 2.1b: explore narrative accounts of important events from world history to learn about different accounts of the past to begin to understand how interpretations and perspectives develop
- 2.1c: study about different world cultures and civilizations focusing on their accomplishments, contributions, values, beliefs, and traditions

Key Idea 2.2:

2. Establishing timeframes, exploring different periodizations, examining themes across time and within cultures, and focusing on important turning points in world history help organize the study of world cultures and civilizations.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 2.2a: distinguish between past, present, and future time periods
- 2.2b: develop timelines that display important events and eras from world history
- 2.2c: measure and understand the meaning of calendar time in terms of years, decades, centuries, and millennia, using BCE and CE as reference points
- 2.2d: compare important events and accomplishments from different time periods in world history

Key Idea 2.3:

3. The study of the major social, political, cultural, and religious developments in world history involves learning about the important roles and contributions of individuals and groups.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 2.3a: understand the roles and contributions of individuals and groups to social, political, economic, cultural, scientific, technological, and religious practices and activities
- 2.3b: gather and present information about important developments from world history
- 2.3c: understand how the terms social, political, economic, and cultural can be used to describe human activities or practices

Key Idea 2.4:

4. The skills of historical analysis include the ability to investigate differing and competing interpretations of the theories of history, hypothesize about why interpretations change over time, explain the importance of historical evidence, and understand the concepts of change and continuity over time.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 2.4a: consider different interpretations of key events and developments in world history and understand the differences in these accounts
- 2.4b: explore the lifestyles, beliefs, traditions, rules and laws, and social/cultural needs and wants of people during different periods in history and in different parts of the world
- 2.4c: view historic events through the eyes of those who were there, as shown in their art, writings, music, and artifacts

STANDARD 3 – GEOGRAPHY

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of the geography of the interdependent world in which we live — local, national, and global — including the distribution of people, places, and environments over the Earth's surface.

Key Idea 3.1:

1. Geography can be divided into six essential elements, which can be used to analyze important historic, geographic, economic, and environmental questions and issues. These six elements include: the world in spatial terms, places and regions, physical settings (including natural resources), human systems, environment and society, and the use of geography.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 3.1a: study about how people live, work, and utilize natural resources
- 3.1b: draw maps and diagrams that serve as representations of places, physical features, and objects
- 3.1c: locate places within the local community, state and nation; locate the Earth's continents in relation to each other and to principal parallels and meridians
- 3.1d: identify and compare the physical, human, and cultural characteristics of different regions and people
- 3.13: investigate how people depend on and modify the physical environment

Key Idea 3.2:

2. Geography requires the development and application of the skills of asking and answering geographic questions, analyzing theories of geography, and acquiring and organizing geographic information.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 3.2a: ask geographic questions about where places are located; why they are located where they are; what is important about their locations; and how their locations are related to the location of other people and places
- 3.2b: gather and organize geographic information from a variety of sources and display it in a number of ways
- 3.2c: analyze geographic information by making relationships, interpreting trends and relationships, and analyzing geographic data

STANDARD 4 – ECONOMICS

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of how the United States and other societies develop economic systems and associated institutions to allocate scarce resources, how major decision-making units function in the U.S. and other national economies, and how an economy solves the scarcity problem through market and non-market mechanisms.

Key Idea 4.1:

1. The study of economics requires an understanding of major economic concepts and systems, the principles of economic decision making, and the interdependence of economies and economic systems throughout the world.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 4.1a: know some ways individuals and groups attempt to satisfy their basic needs and wants by utilizing scarce resources
- 4.1b: explain how people's wants exceed their limited resources and that this condition defines scarcity
- 4.1c: know that scarcity requires individuals to make choices and that these choices involve costs
- 4.1d: study how the availability and distribution of resources is important to a nation's economic growth
- 4.1e: understand how societies organize their economies to answer fundamental economic questions: What goods and services shall be produced and in what quantities? How shall goods and services be produced?
- 4.1f: investigate how production, distribution, exchange, and consumption of goods and services are economic decisions with which all societies and nations must deal

Key Idea 4.2:

2. Economics requires the development and application of the skills needed to make informed and well-reasoned economic decisions in daily and national life.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 4.2a: locate economic information, using card catalogues, computer databases, indices, and library guides
- 4.2b: collect economic information from textbooks, standard references, newspapers, periodicals, and other primary and secondary sources
- 4.2c: make hypotheses about economic issues and problems, testing, refining, and eliminating hypotheses and developing new ones when necessary
- 4.2d: present economic information by developing charts, tables, diagrams, and simple graphs

STANDARD 5 – CIVICS, CITIZENSHIP, AND GOVERNMENT

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of the necessity for establishing governments, the governmental system of the United States and other nations, the United States Constitution, the basic civic values of American constitutional democracy, and the roles, rights, and responsibilities of citizenship, including avenues of participation.

Key Idea 5.1:

1. The study of civics, citizenship, and government involves learning about political systems; the purposes of government and civic life; and the differing assumptions held by people across time and place regarding power, authority, governance, and law.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 5.1a: know the meaning of key terms and concepts related to government, including democracy, power, citizenship, nation-state, and justice
- 5.1b: explain the probable consequences of the absence of government and rules
- 5.1c: describe the basic purposes of government and the importance of civic life
- 5.1d: understand that social and political systems are based upon people's beliefs
- 5.1e: discuss how and why the world is divided into nations and what kinds of governments other nations have

Key Idea 5.2:

2. The state and federal governments established by the Constitutions of the United States and the State of New York embody basic civic values (such as justice, honesty, self-discipline, due process, equality, majority rule with respect for minority rights, and respect for self, others, and property), principles, and practices and establish a system of shared and limited government.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 5.2a: explain how the Constitutions of New York State and the United States and the Bill of Rights are the basis for democratic values in the United States
- 5.2b: understand the basic civil values that are the foundation of American constitutional democracy
- 5.2c: know what the United States Constitution is and why it is important
- 5.2d: understand that the United States Constitution and the Constitution of the State of New York are written plans for organizing the functions of government
- 5.2e: understand the structure of New York State and local governments, including executive, legislative and judicial branches
- 5.2f: identify their legislative and executive representatives at the local, state, and national governments

Key Idea 5.3:

3. Central to civics and citizenship is an understanding of the roles of the citizen within American constitutional democracy and the scope of a citizen's rights and responsibilities.

Student Performance Indicators:

5.3a: understand that citizenship includes an awareness of the holidays, celebrations, and symbols of our nation

5.3b: examine what it means to be a good citizen in the classroom, school, home, and community

5.3c: identify and describe the rules and responsibilities students have at home, in the classroom, and at school

5.3d: examine the basic principles of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitutions of the United States and New York State

5.3e: understand that effective, informed citizenship is a duty of each citizen, demonstrated by jury service, voting, and community service

5.3f: identify basic rights that students have and those that they will acquire as they age

Key Idea 5.4:

4. The study of civics and citizenship requires the ability to probe ideas and assumptions, ask and answer analytical questions, take a skeptical attitude toward questionable arguments, evaluate evidence, formulate rational conclusions, and develop and refine participatory skills.

Student Performance Indicators:

5.4a: show a willingness to consider other points of view before drawing conclusions or making judgments

5.4b: participate in activities that focus on a classroom, school, or community issue or problem

5.4c: suggest alternative solutions or courses of action to hypothetical or historic problems

5.4d: evaluate the consequences for each alternative solution or course of action

5.4e: prioritize the solutions based on established criteria

5.4f: propose an action plan to address the issue of how to solve the problem

STANDARD 1 – HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES AND NEW YORK

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of major ideas, eras, themes, developments, and turning points in the history of the United State and New York.

Key Idea 1.1:

The study of New York State and United States history requires an analysis of the development of American culture, its diversity and multicultural context, and the ways people are unified by many values, practices, and traditions.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 1.1a: explore the meaning of American culture by identifying the key ideas, beliefs, and patterns of behaviors, and traditions that help define it and unite all Americans
- 1.1b: interpret the ideas, values, and beliefs contained in the Declaration of Independence and the New York State Constitution, and United States Constitution, Bill of Rights, and other important historical documents

Key Idea 1.2:

2. Important ideas, social and cultural values, beliefs, and traditions from New York State and United States history illustrate the connections and interactions of people and events across time and from a variety of perspectives.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 1.2a: describe the reasons for periodizing history in different ways
- 1.2b: investigate key turning points in New York State and United States history and explain why these events or developments are significant
- 1.2c: understand the relationship between the relative importance of United States domestic and foreign policies over time
- 1.2d: analyze the role played by the United States in international politics, past and present

Key Idea 1.3:

3. The study about the major social, political, economic, cultural, and religious developments in New York State and United States history involves learning about the important roles and contributions of individuals and groups.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 1.3a: complete well-documented and historically accurate case studies about individuals and groups who represent different ethnic, national, and religious groups, including Native American Indians, in New York State and the United States at different times and in different locations
- 1.3b: gather and organize information about the important achievements and contributions of individuals and groups living in New York State and the United States
- 1.3c: describe how ordinary people and famous historic figures in the local community, state, and the United States have advanced the fundamental democratic values, beliefs and traditions expressed in the Declaration of Independence, the New York State and United States Constitutions, the Bill of Rights, and other important historic documents
- 1.3d: classify major developments into categories such as social, political, economic, geographic, technological, scientific, cultural, or religious

Key Idea 1.4

4. The skills of historical analysis include the ability to: explain the significance of historical evidence, weigh the importance, reliability, and validity of evidence, understand the concept of multiple causation, and understand the importance of changing and competing interpretations of different historical developments.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 1.4a: consider the sources of historic documents, narratives, or artifacts and evaluate their reliability
- 1.4b: understand how different experiences, beliefs, values, traditions, and motives cause individuals and groups to interpret historic events and issues from different perspectives
- 1.4c: compare and contrast different interpretations of key events and issues in New York State and United States history and explain reasons for these different accounts
- 1.4d: describe historic events through the eyes and experiences of those who were there

STANDARD – WORLD HISTORY

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of major ideas, eras, themes, developments, and turning points in world history and examine the broad sweep of history from a variety of perspectives.

Key Idea 2.1:

1. The study of world history requires an understanding of world cultures and civilizations, including an analysis of important ideas, social and cultural values, beliefs, and traditions. This study also examines the human condition and the connections and interactions of people across time and space and the ways different people view the same event or issue from a variety of perspectives.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 2.1a: know the social and economic characteristics, such as customs, traditions, child-rearing practices, ways of making a living, education and socialization practices, gender roles, foods, and religious and spiritual beliefs that distinguish different cultures and civilizations
- 2.1b know some important historic events and developments of past civilizations
- 2.1c: interpret and analyze documents and artifacts related to significant developments and events in world history

Key Idea 2.2:

2. Establishing timeframes, exploring different periodizations, examining themes across time and within cultures, and focusing on important turning points in world history help organize the study of world cultures and civilizations.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 2.2a: develop timelines by placing important events and developments in world history in their correct chronological order
- 2.2b: measure time periods by years, decades, centuries, and millennia
- 2.2c: study about major turning points in world history by investigating the causes and other factors that brought about change and the results of these changes

Key Idea 2.3:

3. The study of the major social, political, cultural, and religious developments in world history involves learning about the important roles and contributions of individuals and groups.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 2.3a: investigate the roles and contributions of individuals and groups in relation to key social, political, cultural, and religious practices throughout world history
- 2.3b: interpret and analyze documents and artifacts related to significant developments and events in world history
- 2.3c: classify historic information according to the type of activity or practices: social/cultural, political, economic, geographic, scientific, technological, and historic

Key Idea 2.4:

4. The skills of historical analysis include the ability to investigate differing and competing interpretations of the theories of history, hypothesize about why interpretations change over time, explain the importance of historical evidence, and understand the concepts of change and continuity over time.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 2.4a: explain the literal meaning of a historical passage or primary source document, identifying who was involved, what happened, where it happened, what events led up to these developments, and what consequences or outcomes followed
- 2.4b: analyze different interpretations of important events and themes in world history and explain the various frames of reference expressed by different historians
- 2.4c: view history through the eyes of those who witnessed key events and developments in world history by analyzing their literature, diary accounts, letters, artifacts, art, music, architectural drawings, and other documents
- 2.4d: investigate important events and developments in world history by posing analytical questions, selecting relevant data, distinguishing fact from opinion, hypothesizing cause-and-effect relationships, testing these hypotheses, and forming conclusions

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of the geography of the interdependent world in which we live — local, national, and global — including the distribution of people, places, and environments over the Earth’s surface.

Key Idea 3.1:

1. Geography can be divided into six essential elements, which can be used to analyze important historic, geographic, economic, and environmental questions and issues. These six elements include: the world in spatial terms, places and regions, physical settings (including natural resources), human systems, environment and society, and the use of geography.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 3.1a: map information about people, places, and environments
- 3.1b: understand the characteristics, functions, and applications of maps, globes, aerial and other photographs, satellite-produced images, and models
- 3.1c: investigate why people and places are located where they are located and what patterns can be perceived in these locations
- 3.1d: describe the relationships between people and environments and the connections between people and places

Key Idea 3.2:

2. Geography requires the development and application of the skills of asking and answering geographic questions; analyzing theories of geography; and acquiring, organizing, and analyzing geographic information.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 3.2a: formulate geographic questions and define geographic issues and problems
- 3.2b: use a number of research skills (e.g., computer databases, periodicals, census reports, maps, standard reference works, interviews, surveys) to locate and gather geographical information about issues and problems
- 3.2c: present geographic information in a variety of formats, including maps, tables, graphs, charts, diagrams, and computer-generated models
- 3.2d: interpret geographic information by synthesizing data and developing conclusions and generalizations about geographic issues and problems

STANDARD 4 – ECONOMICS

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of how the United States and other societies develop economic systems and associated institutions to allocate scarce resources, how major decision-making units function in the U.S. and other national economies, and how an economy solves the scarcity problem through market and nonmarket mechanisms.

Key Idea 4.1:

1. The study of economics requires an understanding of major economic concepts and systems, the principles of economic decision making, and the interdependence of economies and economic systems throughout the world.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 4.1a: explain how societies and nations attempt to satisfy their basic needs and wants by utilizing scarce capital, natural, and human resources
- 4.1b: define basic economic concepts such as scarcity, supply and demand, markets, opportunity cost, resources, productivity, economic growth, and systems
- 4.1c: understand how scarcity requires people and nations to make choices which involve costs and future considerations
- 4.1d: understand how people in the United States and throughout the world are both producers and consumers of goods and services
- 4.1e: investigate how people in the United States and throughout the world answer the three fundamental economic questions and solve basic economic problems
- 4.1f: describe how traditional, command, market, and mixed economies answer the three fundamental economic questions
- 4.1g: explain how nations throughout the world have joined with one another to promote economic development and growth

Key Idea 4.2:

2. Economics requires the development and application of the skills needed to make informed and well-reasoned economic decisions in daily and national life.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 4.2a: identify and collect economic information from standard reference works, newspapers, periodicals, computer databases, textbooks, and other primary and secondary sources
- 4.2b: organize and classify economic information by distinguishing relevant from irrelevant information, placing ideas in chronological order, and selecting appropriate labels for data
- 4.2c: evaluate economic data by differentiating fact from opinion and identifying frames of reference
- 4.2d: develop conclusions about economic issues and problems by creating broad statements which summarize findings and solutions
- 4.2e: present economic information by using media and other appropriate visuals such as tables, charts, and graphs to communicate ideas and conclusions

STANDARD 5 – CIVICS, CITIZENSHIP, AND GOVERNMENT

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of the necessity for establishing governments, the governmental system of the U.S. and other nations, the U.S. Constitution, the basic civic values of American constitutional democracy, and the roles, rights, and responsibilities of citizenship, including avenues of participation.

Key Idea 5.1:

1. The study of civics, citizenship, and government involves learning about political systems, the purposes of government and civic life, and the differing assumptions held by people across time and place regarding power, authority, governance, and law.

Student Performance Indicators:

5.1a: analyze how the values of a nation affect the guarantee of human rights and make provisions for human needs

5.1b: consider the nature and evolution of constitutional democracies

5.1c: explore the rights of citizens in other parts of the hemisphere and determine how they are similar to and different from the rights of American citizens

5.1d: analyze the sources of a nation's values as embodied in its constitution, statutes, and important court cases

Key Idea 5.2:

2. The state and federal governments established by the Constitutions of the United States and the State of New York embody basic civic values (such as justice, honesty, self-discipline, due process, equality, majority rule with respect for minority rights, and respect for self, others, and property), principles, and practices and establish a system of shared and limited government.

Student Performance Indicators:

5.2a: understand how civic values reflected in United States and New York State Constitutions have been implemented through laws and practices

5.2b: understand that the New York State Constitution, along with a number of other documents, served as a model for the development of the United States Constitution

5.2c: compare and contrast the development and evolution of the constitutions of the United States and New York State

5.2d: define federalism and describe the powers granted the national and state governments by the United States Constitution

5.2e: value the principles, ideals, and core values of the American democratic system based upon the premises of human dignity, liberty, justice, and equality

5.2f: understand how the United States and New York State Constitutions support majority rule but also protect the rights of the minority

Key Idea 5.3:

3. Central to civics and citizenship is an understanding of the roles of the citizen within American constitutional democracy and the scope of a citizen's rights and responsibilities.

Student Performance Indicators:

- 5.3a: explain what citizenship means in a democratic society, how citizenship is defined in the Constitution and other laws of the land, and how the definition of citizenship has changed in the United States and New York State over time
- 5.3b: understand that the American legal and political systems guarantee and protect the rights of citizens and assume that citizens will hold and exercise certain civic values and fulfill certain civic responsibilities
- 5.3c: discuss the role of an informed citizen in today's changing world
- 5.3d: explain how Americans are citizens of their state and of the United States

Key Idea 5.4

4. The study of civics and citizenship requires the ability to probe ideas and assumptions, ask and answer analytical questions, take a skeptical attitude toward questionable arguments, evaluate evidence, formulate rational conclusions, and develop and refine participatory skills

Student Performance Indicators:

- 5.4a: respect the rights of others in discussions and classroom debates regardless of whether or not one agrees with their viewpoint
- 5.4b: explain the role that civility plays in promoting effective citizenship in preserving democracy
- 5.4c: participate in negotiation and compromise to resolve classroom, school, and community disagreements and problems
